Lots of activity on the salt water scene. The first albacore of the year were reported by commercial fishermen 100 miles below San Diego. They landed 18 fish. I didn't expect much activity along the Southern California coast on albacore this year as the water is much too warm for them. Probably the schools will move about 80 to 100 miles out and they will be caught up near Moro Bay. We will have to be content with yellowtail and barracuda. Good reports on both yellows from Huntington Flats. One of my customers reported the best hot action of the year on both log barracuda and yellows in the 12-pound class. They were really hot and hit both jigs and bait. Horseshoe kelp also is waking up after a long rest and activity on barracuda is taking some of the pressure off Rocky Point. On the surf the corbina have moved back inside the Redondo breakwater and although they are being seen swimming near the breakwater, very few are being caught. The small halibut are still being caught inside the bay and every day at least one big flatie over 15 pounds is being taken on the Redondo Pier. The barge fishing shows lots of bonito and some of the night barge fishermen have scored on barracuda.

Fresh water fishing locally has been good, although the weather has been cool and the nights downright cold. Isabella is producing good catches of crappie and bluegill with the latter averaging over one pound. Cachuma has all the bluegill that you can catch with worms and li-cut as bait. The bass are still for the experienced fishermen who know the lake. Big Bear Lake is still a good bet for fairly close trout fishing with cheese and red eggs best. Most of the fish are in the 7 to 10-pound class, although some of the fish are up to 20 inches.

Grunion season opened June 1 with the first expected run starting this Friday, June 10, at 10:30 and continuing for an hour. Grunion may be taken on the beach or in the surf by hand only. No appliances of any kind may be used and it is unlawful to dig holes in the sand to entrap the fish. There is no limit on size or quantity but you must have a valid fishing license for any person over 16 years of age.

Although outfit 8 to 4, the Pintos hit back to back homers in the third and fourth for the losers and Lanny Robke collected one for the Wranglers.

Roy Allen started for the winners but was relieved by his brother Ray when the Roans tied the game in the fifth inning. Ray silenced the Roans for the rest of the route.

The Hayden Lee Broncos blasted the Colts 12-3 on homers by Dave Farber and Rob Dobbie to give Jack Dozier his seventh straight win without a loss in the pitching department, and the Wranglers won a thriller from Lesser's Mustangs 8-7 in an extra in-
